Constantly Innovating

Table & Bench Technical Details

A Passion for Craftsmanship Where Heritage Meets Innovation

We've been crafting our signature table and bench sets for over 70 years - honoring the authentic European heritage and culture that created the iconic beer garden style. In that time, we've worked hard to stay true to our roots while closely scrutinizing every aspect of our design, construction, and production processes for efficiency, quality, and sustainability.

From our initial choice of materials to how each table and bench set is built to solar energy and reforestation efforts, our goal at Mastertent is to continue to build the very best in quality, mobile, folding furniture. Whether our tables and benches end up at Munich, Germany's annual Oktoberfest, a local brewery, or a backyard barbecue - we love to create outstanding quality and to do our part with smart manufacturing practices.

Materials & Construction

High-Quality Materials & Attention to Detail

Every Mastertent table and bench is built with carefully selected spruce or oak wood that is then air and chamber-dried prior to production. We carefully inspect each wooden beam and panel - dowelling knots, milling out resin pockets and addressing imperfections to create a smooth, even surface while maintaining the beauty of the natural wood. Following assembly, each wooden table top or bench seat is stained and finished with three layers of UV-protective varnish for an extremely durable barrier, smooth attractive shine, and easy cleaning. This food-safe finish is certified safe and sanitary.

Giving Back to our Environment

Always looking to further our sustainability efforts, we launched a reforestation program in local forests near our production facilities. Managing to replant over 6,000 spruce trees and 1,300 saplings of other species throughout 2020, our company plans to continue and expand these efforts into 2021 and beyond.

Stability in Every Component

Our table and bench base frames have been tried and tested for maximum stability. The patented C-profile allows for a higher load capacity, the X-bracing structure brings additional stability, and additional anchoring "feet" keep even our largest folding tables on solid ground. These features have been tested and proven to increase stability by 20% compared to conventional folding table models.

Premium Powder-Coated Finish

To prepare our tables and benches for long-term, outdoor use, each base frame is sealed and coated in a multi-phase powder-coated finish. After prepping and cleaning the frames, each piece is sprayed with fine powder in a specialized chamber - allowing for a solvent-free coating. In the final stage, the base frames are placed in a furnace to cure the finish at a temperature of 356° F - resulting in a strong, resistant, and smooth coating. Standard in Forest Green and Jet Black - additional colors available by custom order.
